Full Stack Web Developer

I build fast, responsive web products end to end. React front-ends, Node and Express APIs, MongoDB data models, all shipped to real users on real domains.

01 / ABOUT

A developer with a product mindset

I'm a Computer Science graduate from UET Mardan and a full stack developer who cares as much about how a product feels as how it's wired underneath.

Over six months of internship experience I've worked inside a live production codebase, building React components, designing REST endpoints, modelling MongoDB collections and shipping features that real users touch. I also work with WordPress and Shopify for clients who need a store or content site running quickly and cleanly.

AI tooling is part of my daily workflow now. I use LLMs for scaffolding, refactoring, debugging and code review, which lets me ship more each week without lowering the bar on what actually goes into the repo.
